The Magnificent Monster of Manitoba

7:30 PM, April 19, 2011, Totino Fine Arts Center Room F2128, Northwestern College, Roseville

For years people have been seeing a serpent like creature on Lake Manitoba. Indian stories tell of a large animal that roams the lake. They call it PogoPogo, the local community calls it Manipogo. “Mani” for Manitoba and “pogo” using part of the Indian name. This is to designate the creatures as the ones that live in Manitoba since PogoPogo has been seen all the way across Canada to Vancouver Island.

Russ and Tricia McGlenn have led two safaris to Lake Manitoba to look for the creatures and interview eyewitnesses. Some of the topics discussed are; Is Manipogo a marine creature from the “dinosaur” era? Is Manipogo an ancient marine whale called a basilasaurus? Why do living dinosaurs falsify the evolutionary hypothesis? Are there other living dinosaurs in the world today? What evidence shows that dinosaurs and Indians lived at the same time? Video taped interviews of eyewitnesses will be shown. A written report on Manipogo will be available for $5.00.

All meetings are free and open to the public, an offering will be accepted.

Have you considered...

...the Galapagos island marine iguana. These iguanas are superb swimmers enabling them to search out and catch food underwater. While underwater they are vulnerable to sharks that find iguanas delectable. Sharks have sensitive hearing; in fact they can hear the heartbeat of an iguana hiding 12 feet away. What does an iguana do? It stops its heart from beating for up to 45 minutes. The iguana can do this without suffering any ill effects. For a creature to stop its heart for this long requires some major internal modifications. Could this happen by accident and chance? How many iguanas were eaten by sharks waiting for evolution to change the heart system? Just because I want something to change in my heart system does not mean it can or will. The marine iguanas were specially designed to stop their hearts when needed. When we see a design there must be Designer.

...stop and consider God's wonders

TCCSA's STATEMENT OF BELIEF
 We believe in God: The Father, Son and Holy Spirit. We believe that the Bible is the inspired Word of God, and that all of its assertions are historically and scientifically true in the original autographs; this means that the account of origins in Genesis is a factual presentation of actual historical truths.
 We believe that the origin of matter and all basic types of living things, including man, came about through direct creative acts of God during the six-day creation week described in Genesis. Whatever biological changes have occurred since the creation week have accomplished only changes within the created kinds.
 We believe that the great flood described in Genesis, commonly referred to as the Noachian Flood, was an historic event, world-wide in extent and effect.
 We accept the account of the special creation of Adam and Eve as the first man and woman. Their subsequent fall into sin, by disobedience of God's direct command, is the basis for our belief in the necessity of a Savior for all mankind.
 Therefore, we believe that Jesus Christ is our Lord and only Savior and that personal faith in Him is necessary for salvation.
